

Add Flavor with Herbs and Spices

Article written by Brenda Aufdenkamp (brenda.aufendkamp@unl.edu), Extension Educator

Herbs and spices add flavor and color to food without adding salt, fat, or sugar. The terms "herbs" and "spices" are often used interchangeably and are sometimes referred to as "seasonings," however, they are different.

- Herbs are the leaves of low growing shrubs and include parsley, chives, thyme, basil, oregano, rosemary, and more. Herbs can be purchased dried, fresh or as a paste.
- Spices come from the bark, roots, buds, seeds, berry, or fruit of plants and trees. Spices include cinnamon, ginger, onion, garlic, cloves, black pepper, paprika, and more.

Additional Ways to Add Flavor

- Seasoning blends include a mixture of spices and herbs such as seasoning salt, Italian seasoning, taco seasoning, and poultry seasoning. Check labels to see if "salt" or "sodium" are listed among the ingredients if you are watching your sodium intake.
- Rubs are a mixture of spices and can be wet or dry. Web rubs usually have a bit of oil or other moist ingredients such as mustard added. Dry rubs are mixtures of several dry spices and herbs that are worked into the surfaces of meat, poultry, or fish.
- Marinades are used to tenderize meats and contain herbs and spices, oil, and acid such as yogurt, citrus juice, or vinegar.

Approximate equivalent amounts of different forms of herbs are:

- 1 Tablespoon finely cut fresh herbs
- 1 teaspoon crumbled dried herbs
- ¼ to ½ teaspoon ground dried herbs

Experiment with Herbs and Spices:

- Add fresh mint and lemon to a glass of ice water.
- Omit the salt when cooking pasta and flavor with basil, oregano, and parsley.
- For more flavor, add spices to uncooked dishes, such as salads, several hours before serving.
- Introduce children to herbs and spices with easy flavor combinations such as apples with cinnamon, bananas with nutmeg and chicken with rosemary.
- Start a small herb garden or grow a few herbs in containers. Children will love watching them grow!
